IDEAS FOR HOME BUILDERS

BY WM. A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 18 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Around the nesting problem center all the loveliest and tenderest associations of life. A little four-room cottage just big enough for two to start housekeeping in, is shown in this plan. The widest part is 30 feet; and the extreme length, 42 feet; but this does not mean that the house is 30 by 42 feet in size. It is a good deal smaller than that, but the shape makes it look much larger than it really is, and the shape also makes it easy to provide plenty of light, sunshine, and air. You never appreciate sunlight in a house at its true value until you have lived in a city flat in partial darkness, where you get a breath of fresh air only occasionally, when the wind is in the right direction—and this happens, in some city blocks, only at rare intervals.

My husband keeps me confined pretty close to the city, so that I have unusual opportunities to see a good deal of the sunny side of life. When I do take a trip out to some of the smaller towns where interesting little houses are in course of construction, I realize the difference, and envy people who can spend most of their time in the bright sunshine, and breathe fresh air unobscured with smoke and the noxious odors common to crowded and unclean city alleys.

I have for years preached the gospel of home life. I love to see young folks pair off and settle down to make such a home is very cheap, and it is within the means of any young man who possesses ordinary health. If he who will help him a little, there is no good reason why he should not have it paid for in a few years' time. There is a great advantage in a living room like the one provided in this design, because you can have opposite windows and ventilation from both directions, besides an opportunity to get a bit of sunlight twice a day. It requires sunlight to brighten up a home; and too many living rooms are built in such a way as to shut out the direct rays of the sun. This room is large enough to be comfortable in winter, with a good heating stove in the far corner of the kitchen. You cannot very well have a heating stove in a small room; it makes the air too stuffy; but in a room as big as this you can have circulation enough to keep the atmosphere in good condition.

There is plenty of roof surface on this little house to provide soft water, which is another luxury enjoyed in small places that is unknown in the city. A good system with filter that works right, is a great satisfaction. Of course, it is sometimes apt to be neglected, and the water becomes rank-smelling; but this is no fault of the system; it is the fault of the man who has it in charge. You cannot neglect a cistern and have nice water; but you can have good, clean, soft rain water with very little trouble if you go about it right.

When I stay over night at a farmhouse and have rain water to wash in, I remind me of my boyhood days, when we had things comfortable at home. It was a great contrast from the time-laden solution that I am little homes for themselves. It is the right way to get the greatest possible enjoyment out of life. There is quite a difference, usually, in the amount of money that can be made in a small town or village, in comparison with the same person's income after he has become established in a large city; but it is easier for young folks in a small place to get a home of their own, than it is in the city. It is easy to prove this by statistics. A ten dollar bill does not look so large after you have paid the claims of the city grocery man, the market man, and all the other hands that are outstretched for dividends. Things are not always what they seem; and the extra pay of a man who moves from a small place to a large one is usually unsatisfactory. My experience is that those in smaller towns and villages who set out to have a comfortable home of their own are in comparatively better now obliged to use about 350 days in the year. The woman who does her own washing and likes to have her household then look just right, appreciates soft water more than anyone else. There are many luxuries to be had in the country that should be appreciated more than they are. The trouble is, we are all looking for something more exciting or interesting, and most of us do not find what we go after.

Method in His Forgiveness.
One of C. W. Morse's acquaintances called a friend into his Wall Street office the other day. He said that he wanted to show something funny. "Look at this," said he. "It is an engraving acknowledgment of Mr. Morse's thanks to those who sent him congratulatory letters and telegrams, when he was released from the penitentiary at Atlanta."

It didn't make a tremendous hit with the man to whom it was shown. He heezed hastily through some of the better known aspects of Mr. Morse's character, and predicted gloomily, as to Mr. Morse's future. "Don't talk that way," said the banker. "I don't like to hear people roast poor Charley like that." The other fellow stared open eyed. "That's funny," said he. "Morse sold you out in the most cold blooded manner possible. He double-crossed you, and then, to make it good, he triple-crossed you. And now you're talking love and forgiveness for the man who joshed you. Is your bean loose?" "It is not," said the banker, decidedly. "Morse owes me $100,000. Now that he's out of jail, he may pay me back."—New York Correspondence Cincinnati Times-Star.

Mind for Detail.
"Here's a pamphlet for you, Miss Greenhill, that come to this office today without a proper address," said the rural postmaster, handing a long-expected magazine to her. "Of course I don't see it for you, but the chances are it is for I noticed you posted a letter here three weeks ago addressed to a company by the same name as the one that publishes this here pamphlet."

Unusual Character.
"Now, there is Hiram. Hiram is a very original fellow." "Is that so?" "I am quite sure on that point because he has never been heard to say that he wished he had John D. Rockefeller's money."

circumstances in middle life than other young folks who move away to better themselves. Here is a little house that looks well both inside and out. It is a very easy house to take care of, and is unlikely to need repairs—a house that will prove very satisfactory when its cost is considered. Houses like this have been built complete for $500; but owing to the advance in the cost of building materials and labor during the last few years, it is better to add another hundred or two to the estimate; however, $1,000 or $1,200 for

ELECTRIC INCUBATOR IS BIG

Machines Built for New Orleans Poultry Raiser Has Capacity of 500 Eggs—How Worked.

One of the largest electric incubators in the anywhere in the world was built for a poultry raiser in New Orleans. It is 10 feet long by 3 feet wide, and contains 40 compartments, each having a capacity of 125 eggs, says the Popular Mechanic. Each compartment can be separately con-rolled, so that any one, or all of the compartments, can be operated, according to the number of eggs to be hatched. The controlling thermostat used does not completely break the water circuit, but introduces the comparatively high resistance of a small electric lamp when open, thus avoiding sparking at the contacts.

POULTRY NOTES

Nothing like a few warm days to coax the hens to lay.

Don't let your broilers get too fat or you will be sorry for it.

Young ducks should always have plenty of water and shade and grit.

Green cut worm and meat roaches are the worms and bugs in the winter in the lot.

No condition powder on the market is as good as wholesome food and plenty of exercise.

Turkey gobblers should be mated with the hens as early as possible, preferably by the first of April. The best layers are those birds that have been bred particularly with a view to increased egg production. Inbreeding soon lowers the vitality of a flock. That is why we should get new males or settings of eggs every year.

Couldn't Walk!

"I used to be troubled with a weakness peculiar to women," writes Mrs. Anna Jones, of Kenny, Ill. "For nearly a year, I could not walk, without holding my sides. I tried several different doctors, but I grew worse. Finally, our druggist advised Cardui for my complaint. I was so thin, my weight was 115. Now, I weigh 163, and I am never sick. I ride horseback as good as ever. I am in fine health at 52 years."

TAKE The CARDUI Woman's Tonic

We have thousands of such letters, and more are arriving daily. Such earnest testimony from those who have tried it, surely proves the great value of this vegetable, tonic medicine, for women.

Cardui relieves women's sufferings, and builds weak women up to health and strength. If you are a woman, give it a trial. It should help you, for it has helped a million others. It is made from pure, harmless, herb ingredients, which act promptly and surely on the woman's organs. It is a good tonic. Try it! Your druggist sells it.

A large crowd was drawn to court square Monday afternoon when an advertising novelty for the Red Goose shoes proved one of the greatest drawing cards our people have enjoyed. A goose with a blazing red jacket which can run like a streak, was pitted in two races, the distance being about 100 yards. In the race against the boys he distanced all competitors, but against the girls he was either a gallant or a laggard, for he was beaten some feet by Evelyn Pannell, who won the pair of shoes. These shoes are advertised for the dealers, R. Martin & Co.

Some boys were discussing the silk and near silk hosiery worn by many of the girls and young women here now. One of the boys declared that he had to look twice now, to be sure that these items were on. The other admitted that twice was hardly enough for him to look, but that he looked each success five time to see the same thing that he did the first time.

There will be an interesting entertainment at the court house next Friday night, May 31, when "Snap Shots," a humorous playlet, will be given by home talent under the direction of Miss Lelia Dewitt. There will be some 75 characters, and everyone should be present to enjoy the fun. The young ladies' missionary society of the Presbyterian church have the matter in charge, and deserve the general support of the public.

An Unprecedented Political Confusion.

Never before in the history of our nation has there been so wide spread political confusion, wrangling bitterness of sentiment and effort being put forth by those seeking the office of President of our great nation. There are nine men before the people for their acceptance. They are traveling promiscuously from state to state using all kind of chin music and lip service, criticising each other with vile calumny, each claiming to be devout men and to be the Christ of the nation, capable of saving the country. They are telling the people that they love them and if elected will bring on the millennium era and shall wipe away all tears. So great are the efforts of some by tongue rattling that specialists have to be employed to administer for throat and lung relief so that the foul gas and spleen which has accumulated in the cavities of the brain can be easily discharged upon the contending opponents. There are nine regular candidates for the nomination for President, and four dark horses waiting and watching in harness ready and expecting to be brought into the ring later on, which makes thirteen aspirants for the Presidency constituting that unlucky, dreaded and undesirable number. Of the number thirteen there are four regular bred political fanatics, or we might say, delusive cranks, which render the situation more disastrous and unfortunate. Now twelve of these candidates must necessarily be rejected and retired. Hence the number thirteen shall be chosen for the President of the nation and when such occurs we may expect bad luck, a general depression of business, blighted crops, panics, earthquakes, floods and flames and all kind of ill-fated procedure. So for the next four years dark forebodings will hover over our nation and disaster may be expected from the indications now apparent, especially if either of the fanatics should assume the unlucky number. We need a true prophet to give the forecast of the times. The oldest inhabitants of our country will tell that they never before witnessed anything like it during their lives, and it is to be hoped that such state of affairs shall never be witnessed again. May the good Lord save our country from such a predicament.

Sprains.

A sprain results when a joint or a muscle is wrenched so violently that the ligaments or tendons are torn or even stretched.

The word strain is used to describe injuries so slight that although there is pain and stiffness, there is no swelling. Such injuries are treated by tight bandaging or "strapping"—to the end that the parts may have rest and support while recovering. The word sprain always describes injuries that are accompanied by swelling, which is caused by bleeding into the tissues, and which may be either simple or complicated. A simple sprain is marked by pain, tenderness, loss of power and swelling, and a complicated sprain by more serious trouble, such as torn cartilage or broken bone.

Proper treatment of a sprain varies with the extent of the mischief, but there are certain things that must always be done. Bleeding into the tissues must be checked, inflammation prevented as far as possible; pain relieved; absorption promoted; the torn ligaments repaired, and the joint restored to a condition in which it can perform its work properly.

It has been said that slight sprains need little treatment, but a great deal of care; for a sprain that is so slight as to be almost unnoticed is often followed by structural changes in the joint. A sprained joint should be tightly hinged at once, and the flow of blood into the tissues should be checked by means of cold applications.

A little later there is nothing so useful as proper massage to promote absorption and restore power to the joint. If the injury is to a leg, the patient should be put to bed; if to an arm, he should use a sling. However slight the injury may appear, the part must have rest if it is to get well.

Talks to Business Men—No. 6

Now is the time for you to give some thought to the future expansion of your business, which can best be effected by advertising.

The best advertising—the most persistent and far-reaching—is the art calendar which bears your imprint.

It tells your story for you three hundred and sixty-five days out of the year, and is a constant reminder to your customers of you and your business.

If you are a user of calendars you know all this; if not, we would like to talk to you.

In either event let us show you our exclusive line of Collins Art Advertising Calendars for 1913—the finest and the most varied selection ever put on the market.
